September 9, 2018: 23rd Sunday in Ordinary Time

God is infinitely better than you can either desire or even conceive.

-St. Francis de Sales

SEE BEYOND OUTWARD APPEARANCES

The phrase “Sunday best” has lost much of its meaning in our society today. Some lament the loss of people dressing up for church on Sunday; others think it’s a healthy sign that we’re as casual in attire gathered before the Lord as we are elsewhere. No matter which school of thought on this topic we belong to, James would probably chastise us. In either case, we are still focused on external appearance, mistaking it for some sort of favored position before God. True, James criticizes the community that favors the rich and well-dressed while ostracizing the poorly clothed, but even more he criticizes the making of distinctions, making choices based on criteria that having nothing to do with the reign of God. James might turn our attention to the reign of God described by Isaiah, in which people are healed and the earth becomes ripe to bear fruit. Jesus today is focused on this reign of God, healing a Gentile man in a region hostile to his Jewish faith, not mindful of the man’s origins or clothing or status or ability to repay. Isaiah, James, and Jesus in Mark’s Gospel all call us to look more deeply to find where the will of God needs to be done, and has been done, on earth as in heaven.

GROWING DISCIPLES

Welcome to this new column in our weekly bulletin! It is written by fellow parishioners with the hope that it will help you on your journey to grow as disciples of Jesus. In Greek, DISCIPLE means “a follower or apprentice of a master.” To be Jesus’ disciple, we are called to live like him, think like him, serve like him. Lets walk together and follow Jesus!

CREATION

Do I matter? Of all God’s creatures, only humans are created in God’s image and likeness – God breathed His actual Spirit into us. God is a Trinity- 3 persons, Father, Son, and Holy Spirit- in eternal love with each other. Since we are made in His image, God created in us this same desire to love and be loved, to be in communion with Him and each other. WE MATTER!

LETTER FROM CARDINAL BLASE J. CUPICH TO THE PEOPLE OF THE ARCHDIOCESE OF CHICAGO IN RESPONSE TO THE PENNSYLVANIA GRAND JURY REPORT

August 17, 2018

Dear Brothers and Sisters,

Anger, shock, grief, shame. What other words can we summon to describe the experience of learning about the devastating revelations of sexual abuse—and the failures of bishops to safeguard the children entrusted to their care—published in the Pennsylvania grand jury report, released Tuesday? This catalogue of horrors comes on the heels of news accounts of deeply disturbing sexual-abuse and harassment allegations against Archbishop Theodore McCarrick, who recently resigned from the College of Cardinals. And yet whatever words we may use to describe the anguish of reading about these heinous acts, they can never capture the reality of suffering endured by victims of sexual abuse, suffering compounded by the woeful responses of bishops who failed to protect the people they were ordained to serve. As the Holy See put it in its August 16 statement on the grand jury report: “The church must learn hard lessons from its past, and there should be accountability for both abusers and those who permitted abuse to occur.”

I know that many of you are asking: How could this be happening again? Didn't the U.S. bishops address this crisis sixteen years ago when they met in Dallas? What are they doing now, and why should we trust that this time they will do the right thing?

These are precisely the questions that ought to be asked. As a former chair of the U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops Committee for the Protection of Children and Young People, I have asked them myself. And sorrow, disgust, outrage—these are righteous feelings, the stirrings of the conscience of a people scandalized by the terrible reality that too many of the men who promised to protect their children, and strengthen their faith, have been responsible for wounding both.

We know this not only because of the admirable work of the many members of the news media who played an essential role in bringing this crisis into the light. Now, we have been made to face these scandals first and foremost by the courage of victim-survivors—the men and woman who found the strength, even when doing so meant suffering again unimaginable pain, to come forward and seek justice from an institution that grievously failed them.

What are we bishops doing now to ensure that those failures are not repeated? Today, USCCB President Cardinal Daniel DiNardo announced on behalf of all the bishops that our conference will launch a thorough investigation of the allegations against Archbishop McCarrick; that it will establish new ways in which people can report complaints against bishops; and that it will advocate for more effective resolution of such allegations. The USCCB will invite the Holy See to investigate the McCarrick case, in concert with a predominantly lay group of experts.

The bishops will also update our 2002 “Statement of Episcopal Commitment” by which the bishops pledged to follow a procedure for reporting allegations of sexual abuse of minors by a bishop.

This document needs revision to clarify how victims can report abuse of minors or other misconduct by bishops, as well as develop third-party reporting systems, many of which are already being looked at today. Of course, bishops are not exempt from following standards of behavior. Our own Cardinal Joseph Bernardin provided a strong example, when he chose to step aside after he was accused of abuse—a charge that was eventually retracted.

The USCCB will also press for procedures that will make it easier to resolve complaints against bishops in a timely, fair, and transparent manner.

As Cardinal DiNardo explained, all this will be conducted with “proper independence, sufficient authority, and substantial leadership by laity.” This call for lay oversight of the investigation, as much as the scandal itself, shows the need for systemic change in the way we order church life. The clericalist mindset, responsible for so much of the scandal, must be purged from church life. As Pope Francis has urged, we need to remember that it is our baptism that unites us. We as a church must reflect more deeply on what we share in common, rather than what distinguishes us.

The abuses contained in the Pennsylvania grand jury report are, as you know, appallingly familiar. And while it is true that the vast majority of abuses contained in that report occurred decades ago, that is of no comfort to victims, nor should it be to any of us. We cannot say this enough: the abuses should never have happened, and no one should have acted in ways that enabled them. This is why, following the 2002 waves of scandals, the USCCB adopted policies designed to protect young people from abusers. We instituted a zero-tolerance policy which holds that even one instance of child sexual abuse would bar someone from the priesthood forever. The Archdiocese of Chicago has implemented these policies and even done more.

1. We established an independent lay-majority review board to consider allegations against clergy and make recommendations to the bishops.
2. We refer all allegations of abuse to civil authorities.
3. We require diocesan employees and volunteers to undergo background checks.
4. We mandate that all diocesan employees and volunteers undergo safe-environment training to help them identify predatory behavior and understand avenues of reporting. And we required that children be taught how to recognize, resist and report abuse.
5. We undergo an annual audit to measure compliance with these policies, which every year has found the Archdiocese of Chicago compliant.

Since 2002, hundreds of thousands of our people in dioceses across the United States have undergone safe-environment training. In many ways we can say that the policies of the Charter for the Protection of Children and Young People, which established procedures for addressing allegations of sexual abuse of minors by clergy, have been successful. According to the Pennsylvania grand jury report, for example, just two of the 300 priests named in the text were accused within the past decade, and both were reported to civil authorities. This excuses nothing, and we can never become complacent about our responsibility to protect children and adults from abuse and harassment, but it does say something about the effects of our post-2002 policies.

Here in the Archdiocese of Chicago, we have been following procedures that were first established by Cardinal Bernardin in 1992, following revelations of clergy abuse that came to light during that period. In addition to what the Charter calls for, we offer payment for counseling or other assistance to anyone who comes to us with allegations even before attempting to establish the credibility of the claim. After any civil investigation has concluded, we conduct our own inquiry into allegations against priests, and our majority-lay review board considers the case and makes a recommendation to me about whether the accused should remain in ministry. One of the most important things Cardinal Bernardin did was to establish a regular meeting of everyone who might be called in to consider a case of sexual abuse, whether it involves a minor or an adult. So, to this day, representatives from across the relevant pastoral center offices regularly meet with me to advise me on cases that arise and ways to strengthen our commitments.

Of course, not set of procedures is perfect. As the grand jury report illustrates, they are subject to the strengths and weaknesses of those entrusted to carry them out. Closed systems always tend toward self-protection; it is only when we create systems of accountability that we let in purifying light. That’s what our practices are designed to do. They exist because we as a church have a grave responsibility to ensure the safety of our people. That is why I encourage anyone who has been victimized to contact our Office of Protection of Children and Youth at 800.994.6200 or protect.archchicago.org.

Anger, shock, grief, shame. There is one other word that we bishops must summon: resolve. We must resolve to face our failures and hold each other accountable. We must resolve to be clear-eyed about what we have done, what we have failed to do, and what remains to be done. We must resolve to live in the light of humility, of repentance, of honesty—the light of Christ. As your bishop, I pledge to continue holding firm to that resolve. And I ask for you to pray for all victims of abuse. I also invite you to review what I have written here and make suggestions for improving our safe-environment standards, ever heeding the Second Vatican Council's "Dogmatic Constitution on the Church," which called on the laity, "by reason of the knowledge, competence or outstanding ability which they may enjoy ... to express their opinion on those things which concern the good of the church."

Sincerely yours in Christ,
Archbishop Blase J. Cupich, Archbishop of Chicago

STATEMENT OF CARDINAL BLASE J. CUPICH ON MISLEADING NBC CHICAGO REPORT

August 29, 2018

An NBC Chicago TV report that aired Monday night was edited in such a way that gave the false impression that Pope Francis and I consider the protection of children to be less important than other issues, such as the environment or immigration. Nothing could be further from the truth.

A review of the unedited footage of that interview shows that I was referring to the recent letter by Archbishop Carlo Maria Viganò, not the terrible crime of clergy sexual abuse. I said that it was not appropriate, or even possible for Pope Francis to respond to the letter's many undocumented allegations, and I endorsed his request that journalists determine their veracity.

I was then asked whether there should be an independent investigation of the Archbishop Theodore McCarrick case, and I endorsed the call of Cardinal Daniel DiNardo, president of the U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops, for a thorough investigation.

The edited report created the false impression that my comment that the pope should not "go down the rabbit hole" of the allegations in the Viganò letter was about sexual abuse. As the unedited footage shows, it was not.

As I wrote in my letter responding to the Pennsylvania Grand Jury report: "Whatever words we may use to describe the anguish of reading about these heinous acts, they can never capture the reality of suffering endured by victims of sexual abuse, suffering compounded by the woeful responses of bishops who failed to protect the people they were ordained to serve. ... We must resolve to face our failures and hold each other accountable. We must resolve to be clear-eyed about what we have done, what we have failed to do, and what remains to be done. We must resolve to live in the light of humility, of repentance, of honesty - the light of Christ. As your bishop, I pledge to continue holding firm to that resolve. And I ask you to pray for all victims of abuse."

PRAYER FOR HEALING VICTIMS OF ABUSE (www.usccb.org)

God of endless love, ever caring, ever strong, always present, always just:

You gave your only Son to save us by the blood of his cross.

Gentle Jesus, shepherd of peace, join to your own suffering the pain of all who have been hurt in body, mind, and spirit by those who betrayed the trust placed in them.

Hear our cries as we agonize over the harm done to our brothers and sisters.

Breathe wisdom into our prayers, soothe restless hearts with hope, steady shaken spirits with faith:

Show us the way to justice and wholeness, enlightened by truth and enfolded in your mercy.

Holy Spirit, comforter of hearts, heal your people's wounds and transform our brokenness.

Grant us courage and wisdom, humility and grace, so that we may act with justice and find peace in you.

We ask this through Christ, our Lord. Amen.

DEACON'S CORNER*By Deacon John Sfire, September 4, 2018

We have now begun another month of the year. And September brings football. I flew to Des Moines this past Saturday to watch my grandson, John, play football. He attends Bethel University in St. Paul, MN but was playing this day at Simpson College in an away game. John is listed as a freshman, because of injury last season he was red-shirted which means he can play four more years. He is starting outside line backer and played the whole game, and played it well. I can't wait to see him this coming week-end at a home game in St. Paul.

I brought this up because I started to think about the theory of "judgment calls." And God only knows there seem to be plenty of them in just about every sport that is played, depending on which side of the call you are sitting. After the game on Saturday, I spoke with Coach J, the head coach at Bethel, and asked him how he remains so calm in the instance of "judgment calls." He said; "I have to remain calm because that is what I preach to the team, respect the refs no matter what the call." Great advice and this is what today's DC is about.

I venture to say that over the many years of our lives, we have all made "judgment calls" on different people in our lives. Some may have been our spouse, children, schoolmates, work associates or even strangers on the street. And before I go any further, I want to say that this is not a "judgment call" on anyone in particular for I am convinced that this has happened to everyone reading this at one time or another. How easy it is to do. We may do it without even thinking about what we are doing.

Going back in time, I am sure we can all recall the phrase: "judge not, lest you be judged." But how much thought do we give to that phrase during the normal course of our day? I, for one, can say that while I try not to judge anyone else, I have found myself judging others without even thinking about it. So does that make it OK? If we don't consciously think about judging others, does that mean it is alright to do? I don't believe it is. I say this because I believe that the sub-conscious judgment of others is based on some part of our brain that knows we shouldn't do it, but yet we do.

When that happens, I recall the old expression that Flip Wilson used many times: "the devil made me do it." And while he used that phrase in jest, there is a lot of truth to that expression. How many times have I mentioned our guardian angel on our right shoulder and the evil one on our left shoulder. Both are whispering in our ear, one telling us to do good, the other telling us to do whatever we want. Needless to say, we know the one we should always listen to, but many times we don't. So what do we do? How do we overcome the whispering in our left ear by the evil one? The answer is simple to write and even simple to discuss, but not so easy to always put into use.

All we have to do is pause for a moment and call on the Holy Spirit, who dwells within us 24/7, to guide us in the right direction. To help us do what is right. Not by the standards of society or the world around us, but by adhering to the Word of God.

I have often wondered if the refs on the football field ever ask for eternal help in making those "judgment calls." They probably don't because the "judgment calls" they make are almost instantaneous. Fortunately for us, life doesn't normally require us to make "judgment calls" that quickly. So going forward, take a moment and ask the Holy Spirit for some guidance and see what a world of difference it makes in your daily life.

My blessings to all,
Deacon John

LIFELINE HEALTH SCREENING

Do you have high cholesterol or high blood pressure? Have members of your family suffered from these ailments? Do you have a poor diet? If you answer "yes" to any of the above, you may want to be screened through the services of Life Line Screening. Life Line Screening uses ultrasound technology to view the plaque build up in your carotid arteries, the main arteries that carry blood to the brain. Blockages in these arteries are a leading cause of stroke. We are pleased to host this Life Line Screening event on 10/1/2018 at St. Francis de Sales Catholic Parish. Register for a Wellness Package which includes 4 vascular tests and osteoporosis screening from $149 ($139 with our member discount). All five screenings take 60-90 minutes to complete.

In order to register for this event and to receive a $10 discount off any package priced above $129, visit www.lifelinescreening.com/communitycircle, call 1-888-653-6441, or text the word circle to 797979.

BACK-TO-SCHOOL THANK YOU!

THANK YOU to all who participated in the Back-to-School program! We again had a wonderful year with 507 backpacks donated to needy children! Because of your generosity, these children will start school with a new backpack and the school supplies they need for a successful year. Thanks to the Ministry Center staff for their help moving backpacks whenever we needed it, and to Sherry Otto, Geri Gaj, Julie Rohrbach and Diane Larrabee for their help on all the weekends. A special thanks to Stewart Tanakatsubo for his assistance in transporting the backpacks on the last weekend of our drive. The backpacks were distributed to low-income children through our St. Vincent de Paul Food Pantry, Our Lady of Tepeyac, Holy Family Food Pantry in Waukegan, and Catholic Charities, just in time for the first day of school. We are grateful for your contributions to support these children and for giving them a chance for a bright new future.
